Border

1. Border marks the ending of the element and depends on the height and width. It is present around the padding on all the four sides. Because of the initial default values, the border is transparent

2. We use the shorthand CSS property called border to set individual border property values such as width, style and color for styling the border around the padding. This is how we use border shorthand property: border: 1px